

THE BRYAN WEEKLY EAGLE

VOLUME XLIII

BRYAN, TEXAS, THURSDAY, JULY 25, 1929.

NUMBER

The People's Column

As a long time resident of Bryan I am glad to note the call made for a county wide mass meeting to be held Saturday at the court house to discuss the question of good roads for Brazos county.

There is no question but that we need improved highways—both main arteries and laterals that will tap every section and corner of the county and tie into these main highways.

The proposed meeting, at which I understand the people of the county will be told how this system may be obtained, should serve a most useful purpose. The sentiments of all classes and many different individuals will be aired and from all the discussion it is to be hoped that a program may be worked out that will win the approval of the entire citizenship.

It would appear that now is the time for Brazos to join the procession of other Texas counties that have registered their belief in the value of good roads and who have built or are building all-weather systems that are bringing town and county closer together and building up a more intensive community interest among all their citizens.

ABOUT BRYAN

Miss Pattie Sims of this city will go to Dallas Saturday for a short visit. Mrs. M. W. Sims will join her in Dallas Monday and together they will go to Boulder, Colorado, where they will spend the time until during the month of September when the weather is cooler.

"Every man who drives a car, and most of us do nowadays, will save the amount of taxes on the upkeep of his car," said Rev. Roy S. Hollomon while discussing good roads for Brazos county.

Miss Elmer Dorman, who has been in Bryan for several months attending Bryan high school and also summer school at A. & M. College, left today for her home at Valley Mills, Texas. Program for Good Roads Mass Meeting Saturday Afternoon Is Being Worked Out Today

Full details of the program for the county wide mass meeting, called for 3 o'clock Saturday by the committee of Bryan and Brazos county citizens to discuss the question of good roads for the county, will be worked out at a meeting of the committee to be held late this afternoon in the Chamber of Commerce offices.

At the meeting Saturday afternoon the facts and figures concerning what is possible in good roads development in the county, with the assistance of the state highway commission, will be laid before the people of the county in order to test sentiment in this direction.

The data which has been worked up has been obtained as a result of studies and surveys and conferences with state and county officials over a period of six months, and is regarded as exhaustive and as covering every phase of road development for the county—concrete roads east and west and north and south as well as improved laterals through all sections of the county and tying into the main arteries.

The committee members state that the proposal for a mass meeting already has met with a generous response and that much interest in the possibility of a practical workable good roads program is being manifested. The indications now point to a large attendance and members of the committee urge every citizen interested in the progress of the county whether for or against good roads at the present time, to attend the meeting. A full discussion of the question is desired in order that sentiment may be thoroughly tested.

CLAIM NEW EVIDENCE

Jury Completed Late Tuesday For Quiz On Sanity

(By Associated Press)

GEORGETOWN, July 24.—Delay in taking testimony in the trial of Harry Leahy until 2 o'clock this afternoon was granted by agreement of attorneys shortly before court convened today.

The delay was requested by defense counsel in order that it might have time to prepare a motion for a continuance because of new matters the defense desires to present in the records.

The jury to sit in the insanity trial of Harry J. Leahy, condemned slayer of Dr. J. A. Ramsey, aged Mathis, Tex., physician, was completed late Tuesday in district court here.

The court's entire afternoon session was consumed in the selection of four jurors to sit with eight already chosen.

Leahy, son of an old South-west Texas family, sat throughout the day with his customary apparent indifference to the proceedings which were of a routine nature.

The cattleman was granted the sanity hearing only a few hours before he was to have been electrocuted at Huntsville.

In his two murder trials Leahy was accused by the prosecution of having slain the physician for financial gain. The body was recovered from a shallow grave. Leahy first was convicted at Georgetown, but the fifty-year verdict was set aside on appeal. His second conviction here brought down on him the death penalty.

Alinists to testify for state and defense already have examined the alleged slayer.

Roads of Brazos Not So Good, Says Montague Co. Man

"My first visit to Bryan in 32 years and I certainly see wonderful changes," said H. C. Van of Bowie, Montague county, who with Mrs. Van is here for a visit to their son, Nathan Van, an employee at Roman & Vick's drug store.

The Vans left Brazos county in 1897 and moved from the Steep Hollow community to Indian Territory, later returning to Texas in 1907, settling in Clay county. Mr. Van has been a farmer all of his life until the past two years and now he has retired and is "enjoying life" as he stated it. "With nine children all grown up and good citizens, I haven't anything to worry about."

"The cotton situation in Montague county is bad. Boll weevils last year and this year have just about destroyed our entire crop and of necessity the farmers have gone to growing truck and dairying which has proven profitable for them."

"Montague county has much better roads than Brazos county, and if the ones we have traveled are your best, ours are a great deal better. Roads are a county's best investment," he said.

Mr. and Mrs. Van were accompanied by Bryan by Mr. and Mrs. G. O. Groves and family of Petrola, Clay county. They expect to return home tomorrow.

Roads of Brazos Not So Good, Says Montague Co. Man

"My first visit to Bryan in 32 years and I certainly see wonderful changes," said H. C. Van of Bowie, Montague county, who with Mrs. Van is here for a visit to their son, Nathan Van, an employee at Roman & Vick's drug store.

The Vans left Brazos county in 1897 and moved from the Steep Hollow community to Indian Territory, later returning to Texas in 1907, settling in Clay county. Mr. Van has been a farmer all of his life until the past two years and now he has retired and is "enjoying life" as he stated it. "With nine children all grown up and good citizens, I haven't anything to worry about."

"The cotton situation in Montague county is bad. Boll weevils last year and this year have just about destroyed our entire crop and of necessity the farmers have gone to growing truck and dairying which has proven profitable for them."

"Montague county has much better roads than Brazos county, and if the ones we have traveled are your best, ours are a great deal better. Roads are a county's best investment," he said.

Mr. and Mrs. Van were accompanied to Bryan by Mr. and Mrs. G. O. Groves and family of Petrola, Clay county. They expect to return home tomorrow.

Main Discussion To Be On Concrete Roads To Run East and West and North and South Thru County; Improvement of Connecting Laterals Also Part of Program

Citizens of Bryan and Brazos county have been called to meet Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock, in the district court room, for a mass meeting at which the question of improved roads in this county will be discussed. The call is issued by a citizens committee, that has been working for six months in conjunction with the Bryan and Brazos County Chamber of Commerce, gathering data as to costs and other information, and the call was decided on after a conference Monday afternoon with the county commissioners court.

At this meeting the entire road situation of the county will be discussed, with particular attention being given to the construction of concrete roads running east and west and north and south through Brazos county.

Discuss All Phases
Various speakers, to be announced later who have made a close study of the situation and who have conferred with engineers and road builders, as well as with state highway authorities, will discuss various phases of the question and there also will be an effort made to determine the sentiment of everyone present at the meeting.

Brazos District Directors to Be Named in August
AUSTIN, July 23.—Members of the State Board of Water Engineers have commenced to consider appointing twenty-one directors for the whole Brazos River watershed reclamation and conservation district, as called for under the new act. It will be some time in August before the directors are appointed.

There are approximately 3,500 miles of main line railroad in the proposed district and with a minimum valuation of $40,000,000 per mile would produce $140,000,000 in taxable values and are, therefore, vitally interested in the formation and operation of the district. It is probable that the water board will ask the railroads affected to get together and nominate two persons to serve as directors on the board of twenty-one members. In this way carriers as a whole will have representation and of their own selection.

The new act proposes that the district reclaim the lowlands, store the storm waters and provide opportunity for irrigation and power. Large storage reservoirs would hold back much of the storm waters and prevent the disastrous valley overflows. This would permit low and inexpensive levees to protect the fertile valley lands from local floods. The storage reservoirs would also provide large quantities of water for irrigation purposes in the arid sections, as well as the surplus for power purposes. The law contemplates that every county benefited shall be part of the district and thus participate in its formation and operation. Pending the formation of the entire whole Brazos River project, smaller districts may be formed within the area and absorbed into the main district when it is a reality.

After a discussion of the plans for organization, application cards were signed by about fifty of the 150 ginners present. One of the features of the meeting was the barbecue dinner.

Cotton Prospect Reported Better At Steep Hollow

C. M. Risinger of the Steep Hollow community dropped in at the Eagle office today and reports that cotton looks very well in that section now. According to Mr. Risinger, stalks are well filled with bolls and squares and to date the damage from weevil and other insect pests has been very slight.

Mr. Risinger says that a number of farmers at Steep Hollow applied for commercial fertilizer on their cotton this year and the results appear now to be very satisfactory in all such cases.

Some fields of corn at Steep Hollow, according to Mr. Risinger, received heavy rains at a time when pollen should have been left undisturbed on the silks, and as a result the ears are not well filled with corn. He reports pastures to be in excellent condition and says that one acre of good Bermuda grass will furnish pasture for four head of stock than three of four acres of average native grass.

Additional Land Bought by Allen Plans Expansion
The authorities of Allen Academy announce that they have just purchased the property known as the W. T. James home which contains the James homestead and 3 acres of ground. This property lies adjacent to that part of the campus south of Ursuline Avenue.

This together with the property which belongs to the school south of Ursuline Avenue will be known as the "Little Campus" of the school. The house will be remodeled for quarters for cadets, and the additional land will be turned into another very attractive drill field for the school.

This addition increases the campus property to more than forty acres and gives ample building space for the improvement program which the school has planned for the future.

Tick Eradication Should Interest Farmer Since Ticks Cut Into His Bank Account in Serious Fashion

BY NELL BENTLEY
"The farmer more than anyone else should be in favor of legislation providing for tick eradication," says B. B. Jones, agricultural director of the New Orleans Association of Commerce, "since the farmer's pocketbook is hit heavily with the market losses due to tick infestation." Mr. Jones estimates that the loss to cattle growers due to tick infestation in the State of Louisiana during the past 17 months would have taken care of the expense necessary to have carried on successful tick eradication work over one-third of the state's area. Mr. Jones estimates an actual loss to the cattle raiser of $10 per head, counting average loss in weight, penalty assessed against hides on the leather market and expense of clearing shipments through designated dipping stations as required under quarantine regulations. "The folly of harboring ticks at so heavy an annual loss should be apparent to every good business man and particularly to ranchmen and dairy farmers," says Mr. Jones.

The fact that Brazos county was not included in the group of eleven counties designated by a recent conference of the Texas State Livestock sanitary commission in which tick eradication work is to begin soon after January 1, 1930, is a source of considerable disappointment to many dairymen and cattle raisers of this section. The counties which in the opinion of the present sanitary commission are ready to effectively carry on a tick eradication program are Atascosa, Willacy, Cameron, Hidalgo, Panola, Rusk, Cherokee, Duval and parts of Live Oak and Fort Bend.

In still another group of East Texas counties the commission recommends that educational campaigns be conducted for a period of two years in order to prepare the fields for active eradication work on a scale that will assure success when the funds are expended for carrying on the enforced dipping work.

It is the opinion of the present livestock sanitary commission that with proper expenditure of funds, tick eradication work could be completed in Texas during the coming four year period.

Report of Losses to Local Herds
From tick fever reach us almost daily at this season of the year. Many of the losses reported recently have been among dairy herds in the vicinity of Bryan, where, if the animal survives the malady, its production is lost, at least for the present period of lactation.

Herd Escapes Fever
Carl Wiprecht states that to date his herd has escaped without a single case of tick fever. Wiprecht gives the immunizing treatment to all of his young stock and dips regularly although not frequently enough to destroy all ticks. He feels this method minimizes the production loss due to tick infestation and at the same time gives his herd the greatest possible measure of protection against fever in a tick infested area.

Glennview dairy reports the loss of only one cow this season, and Mr. Bullock feels that probably a little more rigid observation of his dipping program would have prevented that one case which he immediately isolated and he feels that any danger of further spread to other animals in his herd has been forestalled.

Several other smaller dairies report no losses to date. Most local dairymen either dip their cattle or use sprays regularly in an effort to reduce the tick infestation and consequent loss of production in their herds as well as to give to their patrons the greatest measure of health protection in the quality of milk delivered.

Local purveyors of milk universally express themselves as favoring education among users of raw milk as to the dangers of using milk from herds infected with tick fever. They feel that such a course would assist in building sentiment in favor of enforced tick eradication work.

The fact that Brazos county lies within a tick infested area is doing much to handicap development along the line of dairy development and herd improvement work.

Do Cows Pay?
The Waco Chamber of Commerce has just completed a survey in McLennan county and adjacent territory with the specific purpose of answering with facts and figures the universal question, "Do Cows Pay?" The best proof on the affirmative side of the argument was found in the fact that farmers who are drawing monthly cream checks averaging from $40 to $100 are not fond of loafing about the market places telling their neighbors that "cows don't pay." It was also determined that many farm women who before the advent of the whole milk market had spent many hours each day scrubbing milk vessels and churning, are now enjoying a well earned rest while the whole milk goes to the condensary at 54 cents per butterfat pound.

We might safely venture that a well earned rest is only a part of the benefits to the farm woman derived from the monthly cream check. We would stake a small wager that she is buying more and better merchandise than the wives on farms where there is not enough milk for the family's use, to say nothing of some to sell, and we prophecy that bigger and better farm homes provided with greater beauty, comfort and convenience will be the rule rather than the exception in sections where dairy farming prevails for a five year period.

With the prospect of such a development here that would mean a new lease on life to Brazos county farm women as well as an increased field of sales in every line of merchandise, we believe that every progressive citizen of Brazos county should be vitally interested in tick eradication under state supervision or any other measure that would promote dairying, poultry production, livestock farming or other diversified farm practices that will provide a regular cash income to farm families in our section. Ask somebody who knows what it would mean, if there is a question in your mind as to the economic soundness of such systems of agriculture.

Days of Usefulness and Unselfish Labor Told of by 4-H Club Girl in Report of Activities for the Year
Millie Novasad, Route 1, Box 41 of Wheelock, is one of the Brazos county 4-H Club girls who attended the annual Brazos county encampment at Sue Haswell Memorial Park in Bryan today. The report she gave of her work during the past year thrilled a large audience at the park last night and gave new emphasis to the already evident worth of the work being done under the direction of County Agent C. L. Beason and Miss Lucy Givens, home demonstration agent in 4-H Club circles, when development of the Hand, the Heart, the Head, the Health, are sought.

Millie Novasad's annual report showed that at the beginning of this year she took as a club project poultry and gardening, and also the improvement of the rooms in the home. Millie took double work because she is doing her best to win the $300 scholarship for the best work done by a club girl.

On the twentieth-of-an-acre plot of ground, the amount required, Millie planted and worked until she has sold, to date, 625 pounds of vegetables, with ten vegetables still growing and bearing. The value of the vegetables was estimated at $44.75.

Canned 250 quarts of vegetables which sold for $65.75.

Raised 450 chickens and sold $10 worth of fryers, used all the family needed and has a producing flock for the coming season.

Did all the family washing, and ironed during the club year 650 pieces.

Made all the clothes she wore and all that her sisters wore.

Cooked two meals every day during the past year.

She also worked in the corn and cotton fields on the home farm whenever there was work to be done.

Improving the looks of her home, Millie bought a new rug with the money she received from selling eggs from her flock of poultry.

In making such a report of the past year, this club girl's hands have indeed been made more efficient, her health has been kept perfect by exercise and proper food, her head has received a new vision of the world and its opportunities and possibilities and her heart has learned the lessons of beauty and patience and the many other virtues that sweeten and bless that one who lives such a life of usefulness, day by day.

Wed and Profit By New Fangled Insurance Plan

"You may not deserve to be numbered with the dead ones simply because you desert a life of single blessedness," said R. C. Franks this morning, "but you're likely to need help," in speaking of the Mutual Matrimonial Endowment Company that has been launched here to do business all over the state of Texas.

The company plans to provide insurance for both men and women payable upon marriage. Single persons more than 16 years old will be eligible. Assessments will be levied on the marriage of a policy holder and there are in addition membership fees and annual dues.

Benefits will not be paid until a policy has been in effect three months. At that time it will pay $250 on marriage. At six months the benefit will be $500, at nine months $750 and at one year or thereafter, so long as the policy is kept up, one may marry and collect $1,000.

The company, according to Mr. Franks, is in operation and is establishing agencies in various communities of the state.

Good Corn Grown On Brazos Farm

County Agent C. L. Beason brought to the Eagle office today tangible evidence that corn can be grown successfully in Brazos county. The specimens are of the Yeager White and Surecrops varieties and were grown by K. Kelly on a farm below Koppe bridge on the Brazos river.

Mr. Beason estimates that this corn will yield from 50 to 60 bushels per acre. The stalks average two well filled ears each and the grains are plump and well filled. Mr. Kelly is one of the few farmers in this section willing to admit that he has good crops this year.

Cotton bolls already are opening in fields in Brazos county and present indications are that the first bale will reach a Bryan warehouse about August 1, making this about an average season in this respect.

Last year the first bale was brought to Bryan by Elijah Bynam, a negro tenant on the Charles E. Locke farm, who won this honor for the second consecutive year, as he also brought in the first bale in 1927.

Mike Visoski, A. P. Carr and M. W. Sims were winners in 1926, 1925 and 1924, respectively. In each case the producers were rewarded with the $25 in cash given for the first bale by the Bryan and Brazos County Chamber of Commerce.

Army Airplane Damaged When Landing Here

Devotion to a pedigreed wire haired Scotch terrier by Lieut. F. A. Whitley of Fort Crockett, resulted in the cracking up of an army attack plane near College Station last night, where the army flyer attempted to land to take his dog to Dr. R. P. Marsteller in charge of the veterinary hospital at A. and M. College. Although the plane's landing gear and wings were badly damaged neither Lieut. Whitley or Sgt. W. W. Farquhar, who accompanied him or the terrier were injured.

According to Major J. E. Sloan, stationed at A. and M. College, the plane apparently damaged its landing gear in taking off for the trip to A. and M. College without the pilots being aware of this fact. When the landing was made at the college the plane went into a spin on the ground, in which the landing gear was totally destroyed and the wings damaged. The ship did not turn over, however.

Lieut. Whitley went to Galveston last night and will return with another plane and men to dismantle the ship left here. The terrier is in the hospital and reported in good shape.

Sgt. Farquhar formerly was stationed at A. and M. and is a brother of the man who was fatally injured in a football scrimmage at the college a year or two ago.

Brazos District Directors to Be Named in August

AUSTIN, July 23.—Members of the State Board of Water Engineers have commenced to consider appointing twenty-one directors for the whole Brazos River watershed reclamation and conservation district, as called for under the new act. It will be some time in August before the directors are appointed.

There are approximately 3,500 miles of main line railroad in the proposed district and with a minimum valuation of $40,000 per mile would produce $140,000,000 in taxable values and are, therefore, vitally interested in the formation and operation of the district. It is probable that the water board will ask the railroads affected to get together and nominate two persons to serve as directors on the board of twenty-one members. In this way carriers as a whole will have representation and of their own selection.

The new act proposes that the district reclaim the lowlands, store the storm waters and provide opportunity for irrigation and power. Large storage reservoirs would hold back much of the storm waters and prevent the disastrous valley overflows. This would permit low and inexpensive levees to protect the fertile valley lands from local floods. The storage reservoirs would also provide large quantities of water for irrigation purposes in the arid sections, as well as the surplus for power purposes. The law contemplates that every county benefited shall be part of the district and thus participate in its formation and operation. Pending the formation of the entire whole Brazos River project, smaller districts may be formed within the area and absorbed into the main district when it is a reality.

Merka Is Elected Secretary of New Gin Organization

Charles Merka, one of the best known farmers of Brazos county, was elected secretary of the organization of ginners perfected at Brenham yesterday for the counties of Brazos, Robertson, Burleson, Lee, Bastrop and Washington and which proposes to affiliate with the state association. Paul Krstink of Caldwell was chosen president, and William Seidel of Brenham, vice president. After a discussion of the plans for organization, application cards were signed by about fifty of the 150 ginners present. One of the features of the meeting was the barbecue dinner.

George Hagen of Seguin, president of the Texas Cotton Ginners Association, was the principal speaker of the day and delivered an address of special interest to operators of gins. He said that ginners should know what $60,000 of license fees are issued for, and urged the organization to oppose legislation to raise the bond and license fee. He also stressed the importance of unification of ginners in order to secure protection against unfair legislation. He said he favored the ginners having their own workmen's compensation insurance, and believes ginners and farmers should cooperate fully, as they have mutual interests.

Cotton Prospect Reported Better At Steep Hollow

C. M. Rinsinger of the Steep Hollow community dropped in at the Eagle office today and reports that cotton looks very well in that section now. According to Mr. Rinsinger, stalks are well filled with bolls and squares and to date the damage from tick and other insect pests has been very slight. Mr. Rinsinger says that a number of farmers at Steep Hollow applied commercial fertilizer on their cotton this year and the results appear now to be very satisfactory in all such cases.

Some fields of corn at Steep Hollow, according to Mr. Rinsinger, received heavy rains at a time when pollen should have been left undisturbed on the silks, and as a result the ears are not well filled with corn. He reports pastures to be in excellent condition and says that one acre of good Bermuda grass will furnish pasture for five head of stock, that three or four acres of average native grass.

Additional Land Bought by Allen Plans Expansion

The authorities of Allen Academy announce that they have just purchased the property known as the W. T. James home which contains the James homestead and 3 acres of ground. This property lies adjacent to that part of the campus south of Ursuline Avenue.

This together with the property which belongs to the school south of Ursuline Avenue will be known as the "Little Campus" of the school. The house will be remodeled for quarters for cadets, and the additional land will be turned into another very attractive drill field for the school.

This addition increases the campus property to more than forty acres and gives ample building space for the improvement program which the school has planned for the future.

Tick Eradication Should Interest Farmer Since Ticks Cut Into His Bank Account in Serious Fashion

BY NELL BENTLEY

"The farmer more than anyone else should be in favor of legislation providing for tick eradication," says B. B. Jones, agricultural director of the New Orleans Association of Commerce, "since the farmer's pocketbook is hit heavily with the market losses due to tick infestation." Mr. Jones estimates that the loss to cattle growers due to tick infestation in the State of Louisiana during the past 17 months would have taken care of the expense necessary to have carried on successful tick eradication work over one-third of the state's area. Mr. Jones estimates an actual loss to the cattle raiser of $10 per head, counting average loss in weight, penalty assessed against hides on the leather market and expense of clearing shipments through designated dipping stations as required under quarantine regulations. "The folly of harboring ticks at so heavy an annual loss should be apparent to every good business man and particularly to ranchmen and dairy farmers," says Mr. Jones.

The fact that Brazos county was not included in the group of eleven counties designated by a recent conference of the Texas State Livestock sanitary commission in which tick eradication work is to begin soon after January 1, 1930, is a source of considerable disappointment to many dairymen and cattle raisers of this section. The counties which in the opinion of the present sanitary commission are ready to effectively carry on a tick eradication program are Atascosa, Willacy, Cameron, Hidalgo, Pecos, Rusk, Cherokee, Duval and parts of Live Oak and Fort Bend.

In still another group of East Texas counties the commission recommends that educational campaigns be conducted for a period of two years in order to prepare the field for active eradication work on a scale that will insure success when the funds are expended for carrying on the informed dipping work.

It is the opinion of the present livestock sanitary commission that with proper expenditure of funds, tick eradication work could be completed in Texas during the coming four year period.

Reports of losses to herd herds from tick fever reach us almost daily at this season of the year. Many of the losses reported recently have been among dairy herds in the vicinity of Bryan, where, if the animal survives the malady, its production is lost at least for the present period of lactation.

Heard Escapes Fever
Carl Wiprecht states that to date his herd has escaped without a single case of tick fever. Wiprecht gives the immunizing treatment to all of his young stock and dips regularly although not frequently enough to destroy all ticks. He feels this method minimizes the production loss due to tick infestation and at the same time gives his herd the greatest possible measure of protection against fever in a tick infested area.

Glenview dairy reports the loss of only one cow this season, and Mr. Bullock feels that probably a little more rigid observation of his dipping program would have prevented that one case which he immediately isolated and he feels that any danger of further spread to other animals in his herd has been forestalled.

Several other smaller dairies report no losses to date. Most local dairymen either dip their cattle or use sprays regularly in an effort to reduce the tick infestation and consequent loss of production in their herds as well as to give to their patrons the greatest measure of health protection in the quality of milk delivered.

Local purveyors of milk universally express themselves as favoring education among users of raw milk as to the dangers of using milk from herds infected with tick fever. They feel that such a course would assist in building sentiment in favor of enforced tick eradication work. The fact that Brazos county lies within a tick infested area is doing much to handicap development along the line of dairy development and herd improvement work.

Do Cows Pay?
The Waco Chamber of Commerce has just completed a survey in McLennan county and adjacent territory with the specific purpose of answering with facts and figures the universal question, "Do Cows Pay?" The best proof on the affirmative side of the argument was found in the fact that farmers who are drawing monthly cream checks averaging from $40 to $100 are not found loafing about the market places telling their neighbors that "cows don't pay." It was also determined that many farm women who before the advent of the whole milk market had spent many hours each day scrubbing milk vessels and churning, are now enjoying a well earned rest while the whole milk goes to the condensary at 54 cents per butterfat pound.

We might safely venture that a well earned rest is only a part of the benefits to the farm woman derived from the monthly cream check. We would stake a small wager that she is buying more and better merchandise than the wives on farms where there is not enough milk for the family's use, to say nothing of some to sell, and we prophesy that bigger and better farm homes provided with greater beauty, comfort and convenience will be the rule rather than the exception in sections where dairy farming prevails for a five year period.

With the prospect of such a development here that would mean a new lease on life to Brazos county farm women as well as an increased field of sales in every line of merchandise, we believe that every progressive citizen of Brazos county should be vitally interested in tick eradication under state supervision or any other measure that would promote dairying, poultry production, livestock farming or other diversified farm practices that will provide a regular cash income to farm families in our section. Ask somebody who knows what it would mean, if there is a question in your mind as to the economic soundness of such systems of agriculture.

Annual Barbecue At Smetana Will Be Held July 31

John Stabler and Chas. Merka of Smetana were in Bryan today making arrangements for the barbecue given each year for the benefit of the Smetana school. The barbecue this year will be Wednesday, July 31. This event is looked forward to with much interest by the citizens of Bryan who contribute their part toward its success.

The barbecue will be held at Mountain Hall, one mile and a half from the Smetana school building, because of the limited acreage. A splendid program has been arranged with good speakers, a baseball game in the afternoon and dance at night. The price in plate for dinner is 50 cents and the entire proceeds will go to the Smetana school.

Britten Henderson is principal of the school and will be assisted by the following teachers: Mrs. Britten Henderson, Mrs. John Buchanan and Mrs. Mary Fuller. Trustees who have given much time to the advancement of the school and its progress are: John Stabler, Mrs. Joe Hegmund and J. J. Holik.

Days of Usefulness and Unselfish Labor Told of by 4-H Club Girl in Report of Activities for the Year

Millie Novasad, Route 1, Box 41 of Wheelock, is one of the Brazos county 4-H Club girls who attended the annual Brazos county encampment at Sue Haswell Memorial Park in Bryan today. The report she gave of her work during the past year thrilled a large audience at the park last night and gave new emphasis to the already evident worth of the work being done under the direction of County Agent C. L. Benson and Miss Lucy Stevens, home demonstration agent in 4-H Club circles, when development of the Hand, the Heart, the Head, the Health, are sought.

Millie Novasad's annual report showed that at the beginning of this year she took as a club project poultry and gardening, and also the improvement of the rooms in the home. Millie took double work because she is doing her best to win the $300 scholarship for the best work done by a club girl. On the twentieth-of-an-acre plot of ground, the amount required, Millie planted and worked until she has sold, to date, 625 pounds of vegetables, with ten vegetables still growing and bearing. The value of the vegetables was estimated at $44.75.

Canned 250 quarts of vegetables which sold for $65.75. Raised 450 chickens and sold $10 worth of fryers, used all the family needed and has a producing flock for the coming season. Did all the family washing, and ironed during the club year 650 pieces. Made all the clothes she wore and all that her sisters wore. Cooked two meals every day during the past year.

Friday morning a sunrise breakfast on the banks of the river followed by a swim at Sandy Point crossing. Friday noon a chicken dinner was served and with fresh figs, peaches, melons and all other good things so plentiful on the plantation, the guests were royally entertained.

The house party came to a close this afternoon, when with Miss Nell King as hostess the entire party was again entertained at a picture show party at the Queen Theatre in Bryan.

Miss King's guests included: Misses Bessie Lou Wiley, Lucile Dougherty, Pauline Morgan, Dorothy McDowell, Winona McNeely, and Evelyn Cahill.

Wed and Profit By New Fangled Insurance Plan

"You may not deserve to be numbered with the dead ones simply because you desert a life of single blessedness," said R. C. Franks this morning, "but you're likely to need help," in speaking of the Mutual Matrimonial Endowment Company that has been launched here to do business all over the state of Texas.

The company plans to provide insurance for both men and women payable upon marriage. Single persons more than 16 years old will be eligible. Assessments will be levied on the marriage of a policy holder and there are in addition membership fees and annual dues.

Benefits will not be paid until a policy has been in effect three months. At that time it will pay $250 on marriage. At six months the benefit will be $500, at nine months $750 and at one year or thereafter, so long as the policy is kept up, one may marry and collect $1,000.

The company, according to Mr. Franks, is in operation and is establishing agencies in various communities of the state.

Party Is Given City Firemen by Chief Griesser

Fire Commissioner E. E. Yeager led all competitors in a watermelon eating race which was a feature of the watermelon party given last night by Fire Chief and Mrs. C. E. Griesser at their home to members of the department and city officials.

Melons were quartered and each contestant was supposed to eat out the heart and then whistle a tune. No record is had of the tune whistled by the jovial fire commissioner but it was agreed that it was a musically happy chord and that he won in a walk-away.

Those present were John W. Whitman, V. J. Head, Larry Fisher, Will Blazek, L. E. Warren, R. W. Warren, John J. Stansy and Ray Pippin, all of whom were accompanied by their wives, Curtis Bullock, Milton Baker, J. H. Freehand, supervising architect for city buildings, City Manager J. Bryn Miller and Fire Commissioner and Mrs. E. E. Yeager.

Mr. and Mrs. Eaves left last night for Houston, their future home, followed by the best wishes of a host of friends in this city.

The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Frank Griffin of this city, and for the past two years has been in the employ of Mrs. C. S. Beckwith at her office. She has also been employed in the office of County Clerk J. B. McGee for the past several weeks.

The groom is a son of Mrs. M. Eaves of Los Angeles, Cal. He attended Allen Academy in this city for two years and graduated with the class of 1928 from that institution. For the past year he has been connected with an insurance agency in the city of Houston.

Good Corn Grown On Brazos Farm

County Agent C. L. Benson brought to the Eagle office today tangible evidence that corn can be grown successfully in Brazos county. The specimens are of the Yeager White and Surecopper varieties and were grown by K. Kelly on a farm below Koppe bridge on the Brazos river.

Mr. Benson estimates that this corn will yield from 50 to 60 bushels per acre. The stalks average two well filled ears each and the grains are plump and well filled. Mr. Kelly is one of the few farmers in this section willing to admit that he has good crops this year.

Revival Service At Plainview Is Counted Success

Rev. M. L. Hollis reports that he has closed a very successful revival meeting at Plainview church near Northam. A total of 23 additions were made to the Plainview church, and a number of others united with the churches of other denominations.

There were 22 conversions in the Sunday morning service according to Rev. Hollis, 13 of whom were received into the Plainview church by the ordinance of baptism. There were 15 candidates for baptism who received that ordinance in a Sunday afternoon service.

Rev. Hollis opened a series of revival sermons at the North Zulch church last night.

Bolls Are Opening in Brazos Fields And First Bale of Cotton Expected At Local Warehouses About Aug. 1

Cotton bolls already are opening in fields in Brazos county and present indications are that the first bale will reach a Bryan warehouse about August 1, making this about an average season in this respect. This morning a fully developed boll was brought to Bryan from the farm of R. L. Jones, living about 6 miles east of Bryan, and another was brought in from the farm of W. M. Sims in the Brazos Valley.

Last year the first bale was brought to Bryan by Elijah Bynum, a negro tenant on the Charles E. Locke farm, who won this honor for the second consecutive year, as he also brought in the first bale in 1927.

Mike Visko, A. P. Carr and M. W. Sims were winners in 1926, 1925 and 1924, respectively. In each case the producers were rewarded with the $25 in cash given for the first bale by the Bryan and Brazos County Chamber of Commerce.

Army Airplane Damaged When Landing Here

Devotion to a pedigreed wire haired Scotch terrier by Lieut. F. A. Whitley of Fort Crockett, resulted in the cracking up of an army attack plane near College Station last night, where the army flyer attempted to land to take his dog to Dr. R. P. Marsteller in charge of the veterinary hospital at A. and M. College. Although the plane's landing gear and wings were badly damaged neither Lieut. Whitley or Sgt. W. W. Farquhar, who accompanied him or the terrier were injured.

According to Major J. E. Sloan, stationed at A. and M. College, the plane apparently damaged its landing gear in taking off for the trip to A. and M. College without the pilots being aware of this fact. When the landing was made at the college the plane went into a spin on the ground, in which the landing gear was totally destroyed and the wings damaged. The ship did not turn over, however.

Lieut. Whitley went to Galveston last night and will return with another plane and men to dismantle the ship left here. The terrier is in the hospital and reported in good shape.

Sgt. Farquhar formerly was stationed at A. and M. and is a brother of the man who was fatally injured in a football scrimmage at the college a year or two ago.

Swimming Pool Needed At A. and M.

Friends and ex-students of Texas A. & M. College are looking forward with keen expectation to the coming football season, when the new stadium, planned to rival any in the South, will be opened to the public and make possible comfortable accommodations to many more thousands of football enthusiasts than heretofore have been able to witness the games.

This improvement is in line with steps taken by other institutions of higher learning. Football is the great spectacular outdoor game of today and each season untold millions trek weekly to the gridirons of the country to watch the charge and counter charge—and the occasional long, bullet like pass snatched from the air or other phase of open field play.

But valuable as this improvement is bound to be at A. & M., for many reasons—not the least of which is financial for in this day and age football receipts make the long program of college athletics possible—there is another that should be made in the interest of all the student body that would be of great value to it from both the physical and mental points of view.

A. & M. needs a swimming pool that will be large enough to meet the needs of the students, and needs it badly. It is doubtful if any improvement could be made, catering to both physical and mental exhilaration and well-being, that would be of more value than this.

Already friends and ex-students of the institution are interested in this development and every individual who has the future welfare of the institution at heart and desires to see the finest possible development among the youths who are students of the institution could do no better than to ally himself actively with this movement and by his individual support and influence aid in the realization of this dream of those who have the proper development at heart.

Good Roads Mass Meeting

One mark by which the progress of a state or of a community may be measured is its roads. If they are poorly laid out and constructed, in comparison with those of other communities with no greater natural advantages, they point to lack of progress. If they are modern in type and construction, serving the people at all periods of the year, they point to an intelligent progress.

Up to the present Brazos county has suffered by comparison with other East Texas counties in the matter of modern roads. All about us people of other counties either have built or are planning to build roads of the latest type, that will give all-weather service for years to come. Brazos county has practically no road mileage of this type and this lack is noted by all who drive this way and the comment is not favorable to this community.

Saturday the citizens of this city and county will have an opportunity to discuss this matter in mass meeting and if sentiment is found favorable to good roads to lay plans by which they may be obtained for this county.

This meeting is of primary importance to every resident of the county. Whether you favor good roads or not, it is your duty as a citizen of Brazos county to attend this gathering and to make your views known. The first purpose of this meeting is to canvass the sentiment of the county. This cannot be done unless the citizenship is really represented at this gathering. If you have the best interests of the community at heart you will be one of those in attendance.

The need for an airport at Bryan was again demonstrated late Monday afternoon, when an army attack plane, driven from Galveston with a damaged landing gear, was put out of commission when it landed in a rough pasture in the neighborhood of A. & M. College. The pilot left at once for Fort Crockett to bring mechanics back here to dismantle or repair the damaged ship. There is some reason to believe, according to reports, that if a landing had been possible on a smooth and modern field the plane would not have been so seriously damaged. Moreover, if Bryan afforded such a field, with the service arrangements that would naturally be expected to be installed, there would have been no necessity for bringing mechanical aid from the army post. With more and more ships flying over this city, in regular lanes of travel, and more and more coming direct to this city or to A. & M. College, the need for an airport is steadily increasing and the lack of such facilities is steadily becoming more pointed, which is not to the credit of Bryan when count is taken of the other towns and cities of Texas who have made this improvement and heralded their progressiveness to a world rapidly becoming air-minded.

In modern business moral obligation has come to be the strongest force underlying successful operation. The elder Morgan sounded that keynote when he placed character as the finest qualification the borrower of money could have. In the face of the fact that both Russia and China declare they will not be guilty of any overt act in their present disagreement because of their obligations under the Kellogg pact we see evidence that nations also are coming to realize that observance of moral obligation is necessary to proper internal growth and to the building of good reputation abroad.

The plan of President Hoover to cut both naval and military establishment costs to the minimum is in line with action of this government in selling the Kellogg pact to the nations of the civilized world. Today, though the most active advocates of world peace, we are spending more money for national defense than any other people.

Large Audiences

Hear Father and Son Preachers

Good crowds attended the morning and evening services at the First Baptist church Sunday to hear Daniel Rosoff, and his father, Albert Rosoff, Jewish missionaries who spoke there.

Daniel Rosoff, the son, is a speaker of power and in telling how he was converted from the Jewish faith to the Christian religion, he held his audience spell bound with his eloquence and sincere words of experience.

Albert Rosoff, the father, now 59 years of age, also was converted to the Christian religion, and gave up his place as a grand opera singer, member of the Metropolitan Opera Company, to go with his son into evangelistic work, and sing "The Old Rugged Cross" and other religious hymns, instead of opera arias.

FARM NOTES

Ration Needed for Pigs

Elmer Murray, club member who chose a brood gilt for his club work, reports that his pigs, farrowed May 3, now weigh more than 60 pounds each. The protein supplement worked out by the Extension Service, furnishing the basic ration for the litter of 8 pigs. Club members are learning that pigs must have a balanced ration to produce the most economical gains.

No longer should any one try to raise hogs without balancing the ration, and the supplement worked out by the Extension Service is the simplest to use, a pound a day to each hog regardless of age or weight, with grain and waste products of the farm added.

Ticks Get Good Cow

In the loss of a fine milk cow, Aug. B. Anderson, living on the old Mondrick farm north of town, joins the scores of other farmers and dairymen who are contributing to the drastic toll of the fever tick. In a recent meeting, held in the interest of the dairy industry in Brazos county, County Agent Beason stated that unless he thought something would be done to eradicate ticks in Brazos county, he would never ask any one to put his money into high grade dairy cattle.

Money From Milk Sales

J. A. Hicks, living on the old A. J. Tabor farm east of the College, states that his cream sales from six cows during April, May and June, amounted to $211.80, with one of the cows having been in lactation nearly 12 months. Joe Barnett of Steep Hollow reports the sale of 25 pounds of butter each week from six cows. What we need is one thousand such reports each month, and of course, along with these would be other reports on profitable poultry, home produced pork, and better gardens and truck patches as a result of more barnyard manure produced by dairy cattle.

Boys Visit College

The Saturday morning program began with outdoor games and exercises for the girls under the direction of Miss Julia Schovajsa, while boys were taken to A. & M. College and given an opportunity to see the college dairy herds at milking time so that they might observe milking machines in action and methods of handling the milk in cooling rooms.

After breakfast there was a general assembly where both boys and girls heard Miss Sadie Hatfield, district home demonstration agent, give an illustrated lecture on table service and table conduct.

Mrs. M. R. Bentley, representing the Bryan Daily and Weekly Eagle, also addressed this group on the relation of the local newspaper to the farm home. Mrs. Bentley told the boys and girls how the local newspaper gets the news that fill its pages and gave an opportunity for suggestions as to what features are most interesting and most appreciated by farm readers.

A lecture on potted plants and arranging cut flowers was given to the girls group by J. Coulter Smith while the boys were taken on a tour of Brazos county poultry farms.

Scholarships Awarded

The appropriate dress revue and the awarding to scholarships were the last numbers on the program preceding the spread of a bounteous lunch which was the final event of the rally.

Scholarships were awarded to girls for the Farmers' Short Course as follows: For best record of club work, first, Lena Novasod, Kings Highway; second, Adele Curek, Kings Highway.

ANNUAL RALLY 4-H CLUBS IS BIG SUCCESS

Scholarships Given Girls To Short Course

BRYAN PEOPLE SPEAK

In Encouragement of Efforts Being Made

The Brazos county 4-H Club rally held annually for the farm boys and girls who are enrolled in 4-H Clubs under the supervision of County Agent C. L. Beason and the home demonstration agent, Miss Lucy Given, came to a successful close today with a picnic lunch served under the trees at Sue Haswell Memorial park.

According to Mr. Beason and Miss Given, every section of the county is represented in the enrollments, which total more than 100 boys and girls, though attendance was reduced somewhat this year due to distance some would have to come, the rush of farm work at just this season and the fact that four revival services are now in progress in rural communities of the county.

In general, the canning exhibits were not considered as good as some that have been shown in previous rallies, but the unusual season of wet weather was not conducive to the growth of products that would be standard in texture and uniform in shape and size.

Program Friday Night

Friday evening's program was given in the open air on the lawn east of the auditorium in the park. Many Bryan citizens and college officials joined the boys and girls for this occasion. Following a demonstration club program of talks and stunts, the following local men and women were introduced by Mr. Beason and Miss Given:

Mrs. Leo J. Rountree of the Bryan Daily and Weekly Eagle; J. E. Bryant, Miller, city manager; S. E. Eberstadt, secretary, chamber of commerce; H. H. Williamson, vice director, Texas Extension Service; S. O. Evans, district agent and former state boys' club agent; W. H. Dupuy, county agent, Madison county; Glenn Stinnett, county agent, Robertson county; Tyler Haswell, merchant; John Seelye, Caldwell, merchant, and Mrs. A. J. Buchanan, a member of the Bryan Women's Club.

The style revue revealed unusual ability on the part of Brazos county girls as seamstresses.

The Wilson organization also will remain intact, though Mr. Wilson stated this morning that in the near future he expected to be compelled to add some additional salesmen.

In making the switch of agencies both the White and Wilson organizations have worked in complete harmony and every arrangement for the benefit of users of the two cars has been made by each.

Ford cars within the guarantee period will be given service at the White Company, and the same treatment will be accorded Chevrolet owners at the Wilson plant.

Both organizations will retain their present places of business which are being put in shape for the new stocks of cars and parts, which are already on hand.

In speaking of the change today Mr. Wilson said, "I just want to announce that if one hears me use the name 'Ford' he should figure that I meant to say 'Chevrolet'."

Swimming Pool Needed At A. and M.

Friends and ex-students of Texas A. & M. College are looking forward with keen expectation to the coming football season, when the new stadium, planned to rival any in the South, will be opened to the public and make possible comfortable accommodations to many more thousands of football enthusiasts than heretofore have been able to witness the games.

This improvement is in line with steps taken by other institutions of higher learning. Football is the great spectacular outdoor game of today and each season untold millions trek weekly to the gridirons of the country to watch the charge and counter charge—and the occasional long, bullet like pass snatched from the air or other phase of open field play.

But valuable as this improvement is bound to be at A. & M., for many reasons—not the least of which is financial—in this day and age football receipts make the long program of college athletics possible—there is another that should be made in the interest of all the student body that would be of great value to it from both the physical and mental points of view.

A. & M. needs a swimming pool that will be large enough to meet the needs of the students, and needs it badly. It is doubtful if any improvement could be made, catering to both physical and mental exhilaration and well-being, that would be of more value than this.

Already friends and ex-students of the institution are interested in this development and every individual who has the future welfare of the institution at heart and desires to see the finest possible development among the youths who are students of the institution could do no better than to ally himself actively with this movement and by his individual support and influence aid in the realization of this dream of those who have the proper development at heart.

Good Roads Mass Meeting

One mark by which the progress of a state or of a community may be measured is its roads. If they are poorly laid out and constructed, in comparison with those of other communities with no greater natural advantages, they point to lack of progress. If they are modern in type and construction, serving the people at all periods of the year, they point to an intelligent progress.

Up to the present Brazos county has suffered by comparison with other East Texas counties in the matter of modern roads. All about us people of other counties either have built or are planning to build roads of the latest type, that will give all-weather service for years to come. Brazos county has practically no road mileage of this type and this lack is noted by all who drive this way and the comment is not favorable to this community.

Saturday the citizens of this city and county will have an opportunity to discuss this matter in mass meeting and if sentiment is found favorable to good roads to lay plans by which they may be obtained for this county.

This meeting is of primary importance to every resident of the county. Whether you favor good roads or not, it is your duty as a citizen of Brazos county to attend this gathering and to make your views known. The first purpose of this meeting is to canvass the sentiment of the county. This cannot be done unless the citizenship is really represented at this gathering. If you have the best interests of the community at heart you will be one of those in attendance.

The need for an airport at Bryan was again demonstrated late Monday afternoon, when an army attack plane, driven from Galveston with a damaged landing gear, was put out of commission when it landed in a rough pasture in the neighborhood of A. & M. College. The pilot left at once for Fort Crockett to bring mechanics back here to dismantle or repair the damaged ship. There is some reason to believe, according to reports, that if a landing had been possible on a smooth and modern field the plane would not have been so seriously damaged. Moreover, if Bryan afforded such a field, with the service arrangements that would naturally be expected to be installed, there would have been no necessity for bringing mechanical aid from the army post. With more and more ships flying over this city, in regular lanes of travel, and more and more coming direct to this city or to A. & M. College, the need for an airport is steadily increasing and the lack of such facilities is steadily becoming more pointed, which is not to the credit of Bryan when count is taken of the other towns and cities of Texas who have made this improvement and heralded their progressiveness to a world rapidly becoming air-minded.

In modern business moral obligation has come to be the strongest force underlying successful operation. The elder Morgan sounded that keynote when he placed character as the finest qualification the borrower of money could have. In the face of the fact that both Russia and China declare they will not be guilty of any overt act in their present disagreement because of their obligations under the Kellogg pact we see evidence that nations also are coming to realize that observance of moral obligation is necessary to proper internal growth and to the building of good reputation abroad.

The plan of President Hoover to cut both naval and military establishment costs to the minimum is in line with action of this government in selling the Kellogg pact to the nations of the civilized world. Today, though the most active advocates of world peace, we are spending more money for national defense than any other people.

Leahy, seeking to escape the chair by the route of the insane asylum, is reported little interested in the probe into his sanity. Perhaps he is beginning to figure that he is in danger of jumping from the frying pan into the fire.

Germany's new record breaking ocean liner is an indication that in some phases, at least, that country is not yet ready to give up its long fight for supremacy of the seas.

Tabor farm east of the College, states that his cream sales from six cows during April, May and June, amounted to $211.80, with one of the cows having been in lactation nearly 12 months. Joe Barnett of Steep Hollow reports the sale of 25 pounds of butter each week from six cows. What we need is one thousand such reports each month, and of course, along with these would be other reports on profitable poultry, home produced pork, and better gardens and truck patches as a result of more barnyard manure produced by dairy cattle.

Twenty Baptized After Revival at Reliance Church

The Reliance Baptist church closed a most successful revival meeting last night. The closing service was held with the Baptist church at College Station.

The B. Y. P. U. program put on by the young people from Reliance was enjoyed by all present. There were 240 B. Y. P. U.'s present. The main auditorium of the church was filled to capacity for the preaching service, more than 300 being present.

At the close of the service Rev. Brown baptized the twenty candidates that joined during the revival.

Rev. Brown states that he never had better support or attendance than he had last week. The morning crowds during the week went beyond a hundred.

Rev. Brown began a revival at Cottonwood Baptist church this morning. This is the eighth meeting held by Rev. Brown at that place.

ANNUAL RALLY 4-H CLUBS IS BIG SUCCESS

Scholarships Given Girls To Short Course

BRYAN PEOPLE SPEAK

In Encouragement of Efforts Being Made

The Brazos county 4-H Club rally held annually for the farm boys and girls who are enrolled in 4-H Clubs under the supervision of County Agent C. L. Beason and the home demonstration agent, Miss Lucy Given, came to a successful close today with a picnic lunch served under the trees at Sue Haswell Memorial park.

According to Mr. Beason and Miss Given, every section of the county is represented in the enrollments, which total more than 100 boys and girls, though attendance was reduced somewhat this year due to distance some would have to come, the rush of farm work at just this season and the fact that four revival services are now in progress in rural communities of the county.

In general, the canning exhibits were not considered as good as some that have been shown in previous rallies, but the unusual season of wet weather was not conducive to the growth of products that would be standard in texture and uniform in shape and size.

Program Friday Night

Friday evening's program was given in the open air on the lawn east of the auditorium in the park. Many Bryan citizens and college officials joined the boys and girls for this occasion.

Following a demonstration club program of talks and stunts, the following local men and women were introduced by Mr. Beason and Miss Given: Mrs. Leo J. Rountree of the Bryan Daily and Weekly Eagle; J. Bryan Miller, city manager; S. E. Eberstadt, secretary, chamber of commerce; H. H. Williamson, vice director, Texas Extension Service; S. O. Evans, district agent and former state boys' club agent; W. H. Dupuy, county agent, Madison county; Glenn Stinnett, county agent, Robertson county; Tyler Haswell, merchant; John Seeley, Caldwell, merchant, and Mrs. A. J. Buchanan, a member of the Bryan Women's Club.

Boys Visit College

The Saturday morning program began with outdoor games and exercises for the girls under the direction of Miss Julia Schovajsa, while boys were taken to A. & M. College and given an opportunity to see the college dairy herds at milking time so that they might observe milking machines in action and methods of handling the milk in cooling rooms.

After breakfast there was a general assembly where both boys and girls heard Miss Sadie Hatfield, district home demonstration agent, give an illustrated lecture on table service and table conduct.

Mrs. M. R. Bentley, representing the Bryan Daily and Weekly Eagle, also addressed this group on the relation of the local newspaper to the farm home. Mrs. Bentley told the boys and girls how the local newspaper gets the news that fill its pages and gave an opportunity for suggestions as to what features are most interesting and most appreciated by farm readers.

A lecture on potted plants and arranging cut flowers was given to the girls group by J. Couler Smith, while the boys were taken on a tour of Brazos county poultry farms.

Scholarships Awarded

The appropriate dress revue and the awarding to scholarships were the last numbers on the program preceding the spread of a bounteous lunch which was the final event of the rally.

Scholarships were awarded to girls for the Farmers' Short Course as follows: For best record of club work, first, Lena Novasad, Kings Highway; second, Adele Curek, Kings Highway.

Canning: First, Cora Crenshaw, Reliance; second, Ina Powers, Steep Hollow; third, Hattie A. Nemece, Smetana; fourth, Pansy Souders, Smetana.

Honorable mention for general excellence in club work and community activity was accorded the following: Gladys Jones, Reliance; Emma Kindt, Kings Highway; Frances Morrell, Woodville; Lois Mathis, Reliance; Helen Kopecky, Rye; Lillian Merka, Rye; Catharine Restivo, Woodville; Lucy Restivo, Woodville; Christina Merka, Rye; Mamie Lee Hearne, Kurten; Victoria Severa, Rye; Annette Morrell, Woodville, and Gussie Mae Schultz, Harvey.

These girls chose for their productive projects poultry and garden and all received general in-

Ford and Chevrolet, or Which— Wilson and White, They Choose, Get Together and Then Switch

Automobile agency changes of more than ordinary interest and of unusual features are formally announced today by the White Motor Company and the Wilson Motor Company.

The White organization under the name of the D. D. White Company handled the Chevrolet car in this territory for some time. The Wilson organization, under the name Chambers-Wilson Company and later as the Wilson Motor Company, won an enviable reputation as a Ford agency and distributed hundreds of cars in this territory.

Now, however, the Wilson Company, known as the Wilson Motor Company, will handle the Chevrolet, while the White Motor Company, as the new organization will be known, will handle the Ford car. The change is effective at once and both companies have new models of the lines they just have taken on in stock and are equipped to give complete service on both parts and repairs.

According to D. D. White there will be no change in his organization except for the addition of L. P. Newton and Norman Stewart, who will be put in charge of the parts department.

The Wilson organization also will remain intact, though Mr. Wilson stated this morning that in the near future he expected to be compelled to add some additional salesmen.

In making the switch of agencies both the White and Wilson organizations have worked in complete harmony and every arrangement for the benefit of users of the two cars has been made by each. Ford cars within the guarantee period will be given service at the White Company, and the same treatment will be accorded Chevrolet owners at the Wilson plant.

Both organizations will retain their present places of business which are being put in shape for the new stocks of cars and parts, which are already on hand.

In speaking of the change today Mr. Wilson said, "I just want to announce that if some one hears me use the name 'Ford' he should figure that I meant to say 'Chevrolet'."

"That goes for me, too," said Mr. White, "only in my case it will be vice versa."

Instructions in home improvement, cooking, canning and sewing.

The style revue revealed unusual ability on the part of Brazos county girls as seamstresses.

The three newly acquired credits bring the total of affiliated units offered in the College Consolidated school to twenty-three and one-half.

The contract for the drilling calls for the well to be put down to a depth of 3,000 feet. If oil is not struck at or before this depth drilling may be continued though no decision on this point has been announced.

Making of Southern Grey, As Told During the Hood's Reunion By One Who Carded, Wove, Sewed

By MRS. ALBERT BUSHANAN

Echoes from the annual meetings of Hood's and Green's Brigades in this, their permanent reunion home, continue to come to Bryan citizens from month to month close. Inspiration thrills the hearts of all who listen to the historic stories related by the veterans of the grey and the daughters and granddaughters of those who served in the war between the states, during the reunion days as they sit and talk, and "live over again" the days of the long ago.

"I wove cloth for 29 Southern uniforms during the war, of which service I am now very proud," added Mrs. Davis.

Millican News

Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Dunlap and Mr. and Mrs. Elliott Dunlap motored to Austin Sunday and were joined there by their daughter, Miss Irene Furman who is attending summer term at University. They continued their trip to San Marcos and New Braunfels and report a most interesting and enjoyable trip.

The Baptist ladies wish to thank each and everyone who helped them in any way toward the success of their barbecue Thursday night. It was given to help make a payment on their church pews and netted them $110.11. Seen from Bryan were Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Parks and there may have been others that the correspondent failed to see. Navasota attended en masse, you might say, and certainly contributed much to the night's pleasures as well as profit.

Harold Williams has returned to San Antonio where he is stationed as soldier. Thelston Williams who visits Millican occasionally, had the misfortune of being in a collision with another car recently and his car was forced into a ditch, turned over and very badly wrecked. The other car with a "hit and run driver," continued on its way without stopping to render aid. Thelston was not seriously injured to the joy of his many friends in Millican and elsewhere.

MILLER'S HAT GOES IN RING FOR GOVERNOR

WILL DELAY ANNOUNCEMENT BUT ASKS SUPPORT OF FRIENDS

AUSTIN, July 25.—Lieut. Gov. Barry Miller announced Wednesday he will be a candidate for governor next year.

He will delay his formal announcement and campaign until after the close of his term as grand master of the Odd Fellows, next March, he said.

He will seek the democratic nomination as Governor Dan Moody's successor, indicating in his preliminary statement harmony and political peace within the party will be stressed by him. He will make a vigorous campaign after next March, he said, and in the meantime asked his friends to "look after my interests."

He made incidental reference to the Smith-Hoover break in Texas, saying, "Texas has had enough political controversy in the last year to entitle it to a rest."

Governor Miller's definite statement, long foreshadowed by political developments, brought into the race the second of the two Dallas men who have been pitted against each other in political affairs, Senator Thomas B. Love having announced two weeks ago. Others who have announced for the office include former Mayor Oscar F. Holcomb, Houston; Rep. T. N. Mauritz, Galveston; E. G. Senter, Dallas, and Miss Katie Daffan, of Ennis.

Former Sen. Earle B. Mayfield is regarded as a prospective candidate for the same office.

Lieut. Gov. Miller's statement said:

"Many of my friends from various sections of the state have been calling upon me to make some announcement as to my future political intentions.

"I therefore feel it due them at this time to say that I intend to be a candidate for governor next year. At this time I am grand master of the grand lodge of the Odd Fellows, and I do not propose to involve that great order in the turmoil of a political conflict. My term of office as grand master will end at Abilene about the middle of March, next year, when I shall turn the office over to my successor.

"I will then make formal announcement for governor, giving the people my views, on public questions, and shortly thereafter will enter into a vigorous campaign. Until that time I will not either be a formal candidate or take any part in any political discussions or controversies.

"In the meantime I shall trust that my friends will keep my purpose before the people and look after my interest.

"I also feel that Texas has had enough political controversy in the past year to entitle it to a rest; at least until the spring of the year in which the election will actually be held."

Mr. and Mrs. N. A. Stewart and children, Arthur, Mack and Tom, left Tuesday by auto for a few days recreation in New Braunfels and San Antonio.

Summer Students at A. & M. Fall in Brazos at Government Dam; Stay An Hour Before Finally Rescued

Buried alive for more than an hour beneath a curtain of water in the Brazos river at Government Dam on Sunday afternoon, Adam Cuthrell of Navasota and his room mate, M. C. Easterling of El Reno, Oklahoma, two summer students of A. & M. College, narrowly escaped death.

Young Easterling was spending Sunday with Adam Cuthrell at the home of the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Cuthrell at Navasota and in the afternoon they went over to Government Dam to swim and fish. There were many in the party at the dam, among them Henry Rohde, Johnny Sims, A. W. Emmel and others from Bryan.

Young Cuthrell decided to walk across the falls, which was running in water only about one foot deep, to the other side of the river, taking with him a minnow net. As he was crossing near the middle he was suddenly seen to fall and was sucked underneath the swift current and out of sight. Quick response from those on the bank came to rescue him, but no trace could be found of the body. M. C. Easterling, his room mate, hurried out into water and when he reached the falls also was swept down by the current.

ALL GASOLINE IS REQUIRED TO PAY TAX

REFUNDS WILL BE MADE IF EXEMPTION IS GIVEN PURCHASER

The State Comptroller's Department is now prepared to receive reports of exemptions from the new four-cent occupation tax on the sale of gasoline, according to an announcement by State Comptroller of Public Accounts Sam Houston Terrell. Gasoline used for any other purpose than that of propelling vehicles on public roads and highways of Texas is exempt from taxation. Fuel used in farm tractors, stationary engines, air craft and motor boats, therefore, is exempt.

However, the tax must be paid on all gasoline. Refunds will be made to those exempt. The tax is placed directly on wholesale distributors of gasoline at the rate of four cents per gallon, but the consumer eventually bears the burden of the tax. The new rate was in effect July 16, having previously been two cents.

The new law does not make it easy for the consumer to secure refunds on exemptions. Comptroller Terrell has outlined the necessary procedure for the exempt consumer as follows:

1. The purchaser must fill out an invoice, at the time of the purchase, giving amount, price, purpose, etc. The regular price is paid for the gas. Forms will be supplied by dealers and filling stations.

2. Before the 25th of the month following the month of purchase, the buyer must report to the comptroller the number of gallons bought and the amount of refunds expected. Claims reported later than the 25th of the following month will not be honored.

3. On receiving the report, the comptroller's department will mail the claimant an affidavit-account form, on which will be recorded information as to the amount and use of gasoline purchased. This information must be sworn to before a notary public, and filed with the comptroller not later than two months from the date of purchase. This document must be accompanied with a filing fee of $1.00, which must be paid each time that a claim is filed. These fees will be used to enforce the law.

4. The claim will be investigated, and if considered valid, a state warrant will be issued for the refund. This warrant must be cashed within 60 days.

5. No refund shall be made where gasoline is used later than six months from purchase.

Persons believing themselves to be entitled to exemptions should write to Comptroller Sam Houston Terrell, Austin, Texas.

Quick response from those on the bank came to rescue him, but no trace could be found of the body. M. C. Easterling, his room mate, hurried out into water and when he reached the falls also was swept down by the current.

Rescue work then became earnest and with ropes and drags every body present was trying to do something for the boys, who were thought to be drowned. Presently, the minnow net was seen thrust above the waters of the falls, and proved a signal of distress that led to saving the boys.

Ropes were tied around the bodies of men on the bank and then a rope end thrown over into the falls where the minnow net had appeared. After several futile attempts, the boys were both drawn to the surface and to safety. Cuthrell had been under the falls for more than an hour when rescued, and Easterling for thirty minutes.

The boys said that the accident occurred because during the recent floods in the river two or three of the piling posts were washed out and away, and the water covered the gap, not showing the place. Cuthrell stepped into the gap and was swept down, as was also his comrade who sought his rescue. The place where the pilings were missing caused a recess of six or eight inches underneath the falls, and this proved a safety valve for the boys and gave breathing space during the time they were engulfed by the swift waters as the falls went over them.

Millie Novasod First

In checking the club girls records up to July 1, Millie Novasod of King's Highway is found to be the outstanding Brazos county club girl. She has two productive projects this year, poultry and garden. She has been very successful with her chickens and now has 400. Though her garden was damaged by heavy rains she has gathered 600 pounds of vegetables from it. She has canned 300 quarts of fruits and vegetables. She has improved her yard and during the summer months will remodel the kitchen and improve her bed room. She is a member of the state college scholarship contest and is following in Alma Kindt's footsteps. She says she is going to win, too.

Camp Big Success

The 4-H club encampment, held at Sue Haswell Memorial Park last week, was the best we have ever had. It seemed that everybody vied with each other in seeing who could do the most for the success of the encampment.

Morris Schulman started the ball rolling by inviting all club members to a free picture show Friday afternoon, and now the club members want to elect Mr. Schulman president. Victor Gayle, manager of the Western Public Service Company, kept ice water in the Rotary fountain for both days, and now club boys and girls want Victor to be mayor of the town. Tom Sweeney, acting manager of the Locke band, delighted the camp with a concert of unusual merit. Through the joint courtesy of the Maxwell House Products Company and the Baker Associated Companies, the finest coffee was served both days. D. C. Adams being the genial dispenser. Through the generosity of Mrs. W. S. Howell, president of the Sue Haswell Memorial Park Board, club members were permitted to enjoy the fine facilities of the park. Tyler Haswell entertained the camp with a radio concert from 10 to 12 o'clock Friday night, Al-Kraft being the accommodating operator. Through the kindness of the Chamber of Commerce all club members were given a feast of ice cream, and seven boys were given scholarships to the short course, the Woman's Club giving eight scholarships to girls. Through the wide publicity freely given by the Bryan Daily and Weekly Eagle, the attendance was all that could have been expected. McCulloch-Dansy Furniture Company supplied the camp with a stove in order that camp members could have a hot breakfast Saturday. Members of the Lions Club, the Rotary Club, and directors of the Chamber of Commerce honored the camp with their presence at supper Friday night, thus causing the club members to feel that others are appreciative of 4-H activities.

Dr. C. N. Shephard, dairy husbandman of the college, interrupted an early morning nap in order to show the club boys through the dairy barn at milking time, Saturday morning. Everybody did his best to help make the camp a success. It was informal, but it was good. Little Mike Fazzino of Steele's Store delivered the welcome address, Master Hiram Downard Jr., responding by singing the Star Spangled Banner.

Plans are already under way to make next year's camp a reunion of all former club members in Brazos county.

Miss Harriet D. Parker left last night to visit the markets in New York and select autumn and winter stock for the Real Hat Shop. She will visit relatives in Oklahoma City enroute.

Messrs J. L. Dickerson and G. W. Dyess spent Tuesday in Huntsville on business.

Texas was the fourth largest shipper of dressed poultry to Chicago in May, Iowa, Missouri and Kansas ranking ahead of it.

A Mercedes company has been organized to handle the export of eggs from the Valley into Mexico.

Bryan Rotarians Told Something About Value of Dairy Industry To Brazos County by C. L. Beason

Rotarian Curtis Beason had charge of the program at their regular weekly luncheon. After the introduction of visiting Rotarians and visitors by President H. H. Williamson the program was turned over to Rotarian Beason who made an excellent classification talk.

County Agent Beason stated among other things that one of the undertakings of the Extension activities in Brazos county is the encouragement of the dairy industry. It was pointed out that much of the eroded hill lands and poorly drained creek and branch bottoms must be turned into grazing lands which is impoverishing the land and making poorer the people.

The County Agent declared that more and better milk on every farm would not only bring in needed revenue all during the year but it would also mean more poultry and more home produced pork for the farm home, thus bringing greater contentment to the farm home as a result of better living.

He stated that business men in Bryan, as well as elsewhere, are taking notice that the farmer who has the dairy products to sell is the farmer that pays cash for what he buys every time he comes to town.

The dairy possibilities in Brazos county he pointed out, need but be developed to bring prosperity to the farm and greater business to Bryan. Better production cows, year round pastures, home grown feeds and tick eradication were some of the things mentioned as being necessary before we may hope for the greatest results from dairy industry.

Mention was made that a tour to the dairy centers will be made immediately after the A. & M. short course in order to give both farmers and business men first hand information as to what may be expected from dairying. The Rotary Club was asked to send a representative on the tour.

L. L. Hale, a visitor at the Rotary luncheon, stated that in his home town of Henderson this dairy project was going over big. When they started they were producing Reid, Jasper, J. G. Powers, Bryan.

Bryan 15-Year Old Boy Builds Airplanes That Fly and Motor Boats With Built-In Engines

Roy Vick Jr., 15-year old son of Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Vick of 3401 South College avenue, gives promise of unusual genius in mechanical work, and linked with his natural ability, is also a close student of all things mechanical and electrical.

Since he was a very small boy, Roy Vick Jr. has been making toy boats, airplanes, trains and other mechanical devices out of spoils, paste board, string, tacks, bits of tin and the many other materials that only an American boy can find in trash cans, rubbish heaps and back yards. His vision of what he wanted to attain grew steadily through the years, as he cut pictures from magazines and books, and visualized the paper boats and planes as real, throbbing machines, equipped for service in the water and in the air. Knowledge of the various makes and sizes, with the newest mechanical devices for speed and service, came to Roy Jr. as from day to day he read books and papers on the subject in the reading room of Carnegie Library, and studied the "internal improvements" of successful machines described there.

With added ideas thus attained Roy Jr. made models and models, none of them the success he desired, but each one a "treasure" to the neighbor boys and girls who begged to be the owners of the products of his handwork as he experimented. Finally, an airplane was made that would "fly"—a little. The plane is made of wood and tin, wings two feet long and about 3 inches wide, and with its body painted in conventional colors and lettering, gave much satisfaction to the young mechanic. Many other planes were made by the pattern of the successful one, and Roy's workshop at home has been the mecca of many ambitious young American aviators in Bryan. And now a motor-boat has been successfully built by young Roy Vick, and its success proved by sailing under its own power across Winters' Lake, near his home in the southern part of Bryan, a distance of some 25 feet. This motor boat is 2 feet long and about 6 inches wide and is provided with a spring motor that "humms just right." The spring for the motor was made from an old automobile spring and the workmanship of fitting it into the motor boat is a credit to the ability of the young inventor.

Making of Southern Grey, As Told During the Hood's Reunion By One Who Carded, Wove, Sewed

By MRS. ALBERT BUSHANAN

Echoes from the annual meetings of Hood's and Green's Brigades in this, their permanent reunion home, continue to come to Bryan citizens from month to month each year, long after the meetings close. Inspiration thrills the hearts of all who listen to the historic stories related by the veterans and granddaughters of those who served in the war between the states, during the reunion days as they sit and talk, and "five over again" the days of the long ago.

During the recent reunion here, Mrs. Mary E. Davis of Houston, a loyal daughter of the Confederacy who has not missed a reunion of Hood's Brigade in years, told in an interesting way how the grey cloth for the uniforms of the Southern soldiers was made by the Southern women during the war.

To listen to her words, giving first hand knowledge of that service of patriotism and love that meant so much to the Southern army was one of the appreciated pleasures of the 1929 reunion, and all who heard Mrs. Davis will remember her and her Southern stories with delight.

In answer to the query, "Tell me how you Southern women made the grey for the uniforms of the 60's?" Mrs. Davis said:

"Well, first we sheared the sheep, and they were our own sheep and the sheep of our neighbors. Then the wool was washed and dyed. To dye the wool black we used the sumac roots and berries, boiling them together for five days. When the dye was thus made we took the roots and berries out of the dye, and put the wool in and boiled it for one hour. This done, we set the color in the wool with a solution of copperas, then washed the wool three times and it was dry.

Then came the carding of the wool into "bats" with the oblong steel cards that some of the young folk of today have seen put away in the attics with other relics of the long ago.

When the wool was all carded into "bats" they were placed on a plank, three layers of black "bats", then one layer of white "bats", continuing the process until the pile of "bats" was four feet high. Then we put another plank on top of the pile and made some little negro boys stand on the pile to weight it down flat. While it was thus weighted down, we picked the wool out the sides bit by bit, putting it into a new pile, where it was carded again and picked out again, by this time the black and the white being so mixed as to make the color grey.

Now the wool was ready for the spinning wheel, where it was made into rolls, which were reeled and washed and filled onto little reels called "quills." We wove the jeans of two hanks or eight "cuts" to the yard. It took six yards to make a suit. One could just about weave six yards in one day.

"Did the Southern soldiers just go on into the service without their official uniform when called?" we continued asking questions of the little woman whose very soul responded to the word "Confederacy."

"Certainly they did," came the quick answer from Mrs. Davis. "But, when the war came on all the boys did not go at one time. Three or four from a settlement went, then after two or three months some more went. Then after a while one would come back home on a furlough and when he did, every woman who had a son in that company got together and put thread called 'warp' in the loom. Some of the women and girls would card wool, which we had already dyed and mixed into grey; some would spin, some fill the 'quills.' I generally did the weaving, because I was young and strong and love to do it.

"When six yards was woven it was cut out of the loom, shrunk, ironed, and then cut out for the suit. We all sewed with hands and needles, for there were no sewing machines in that day. After a while, generally late in the afternoon, the suit was finished. After we had finished the work, then came the parties and frolicking, until it was time for the soldier to return to ranks.

"A while later, another boy would come home from another regiment perhaps; and all this would be done over again for him. We never tired of working for our Southern soldiers, and did all within our power to help them to win the war.

"I wove cloth for 29 Southern uniforms during the war, of which service I am now very proud," added Mrs. Davis.

MILLER'S HAT GOES IN RING FOR GOVERNOR

WILL DELAY ANNOUNCEMENT BUT ASKS SUPPORT OF FRIENDS

AUSTIN, July 25.—Lieut. Gov. Barry Miller announced Wednesday he will be a candidate for governor next year.

He will delay his formal announcement and campaign until after the close of his term as grand master of the Odd Fellows, next March, he said.

He will seek the democratic nomination as Governor Dan Moody's successor, indicating in his preliminary statement harmony and political peace within the party will be stressed by him. He will make a vigorous campaign after next March, he said, and in the meantime asked his friends to "look after my interests."

He made incidental reference to the Smith-Hoover break in Texas, by saying, "Texas has had enough political controversy in the last year to entitle it to a rest."

Governor Miller's definite statement, long foreshadowed by political developments, brought into the race the second of the two Dallas men who have been pitted against each other in political affairs, Senator Thomas B. Love having announced two weeks ago. Others who have announced for the office include former Mayor Oscar F. Holcombe, Houston; Rep. T. N. Mauritz, Ganado; E. G. Senter, Dallas, and Miss Katie Daffan, of Ennis.

Former Sen. Earle B. Mayfield is regarded as a prospective candidate for the same office.

Lieut. Gov. Miller's statement said:

"Many of my friends from various sections of the state have been calling upon me to make some announcement as to my future political intentions.

"I therefore feel it due them at this time to say that I intend to be a candidate for governor next year. At this time I am grand master of the grand lodge of the Odd Fellows, and I do not propose to involve that great order in the turmoil of a political conflict. My term of office as grand master will end at Abilene about the middle of March, next year, when I shall turn the office over to my successor.

"I will then make formal announcement for governor, giving the people my views on public questions, and shortly thereafter, will enter into a vigorous campaign. Until that time I will not either be a formal candidate or take any part in any political discussions or controversies.

"In the meantime I shall trust that my friends will keep my purpose before the people and look after my interest.

"I also feel that Texas has had enough political controversy in the past year to entitle it to a rest; at least until the spring of the year in which the election will actually be held."

Mr. and Mrs. N. A. Stewart and children, Arthur, Mack and Tom, left Tuesday by auto for a few days recreation in New Braunfels and San Antonio.

Summer Students at A. & M. Fall in Brazos at Government Dam; Stay An Hour Before Finally Rescued

Buried alive for more than an hour beneath a curtain of water in the Brazos river at Government Dam on Sunday afternoon, Adam Cutrell of Navasota and his room mate, M. C. Easterling of El Reno, Oklahoma, two summer students of A. & M. College, narrowly escaped death.

Young Easterling was spending Sunday with Adam Cutrell at the home of the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Cutrell at Navasota and in the afternoon they went over to Government Dam to swim and fish. There were many in the party at the dam, among them Henry Rohde, Johnny Sims, A. W. Emmel and others from Bryan.

Young Cutrell decided to walk across the falls, which was running in water only about one foot deep, to the other side of the river, taking with him a minnow net. As he was crossing near the middle he was suddenly seen to fall and was sucked underneath the swift current and out of sight. Quick response from those on the bank came to rescue him, but no trace could be found of the body. M. C. Easterling, his room mate, hurried into water and when he reached the falls also was swept down by the current.

Rescue work then became earnest and with ropes and drags every body present was trying to do something for the boys, who were thought to be drowned. Presently, the minnow net was seen thrust above the waters of the falls, and proved a signal of distress that led to saving the boys.

Ropes were tied around the bodies of men on the bank and then a rope end thrown over into the falls where the minnow net had appeared. After several futile attempts, the boys were both drawn to the surface and to safety. Cutrell had been under the falls for more than an hour when rescued, and Easterling for thirty minutes.

ALL GASOLINE IS REQUIRED TO PAY TAX

REFUNDS WILL BE MADE IF EXEMPTION IS GIVEN PURCHASER

The State Comptroller's Department is now prepared to receive reports of exemptions from the new four-cent occupation tax on the sale of gasoline, according to an announcement by State Comptroller of Public Accounts Sam Houston Terrell. Gasoline used for any other purpose than that of propelling vehicles on public roads streets and highways of Texas is exempt from taxation. Fuel used in farm tractors, stationary engines, air craft and motor boats, therefore, is exempt.

However, the tax must be paid on all gasoline. Refunds will be made to those exempt. The tax is placed directly on wholesale distributors of gasoline at the rate of four cents per gallon, but the consumer eventually bears the burden of the tax. The new rate was in effect July 16, having previously been two cents.

The new law does not make it easy for the consumer to secure refunds on exemptions. Comptroller Terrell has outlined the necessary procedure for the exempted consumer as follows:

1. The purchaser must fill out an invoice, at the time of the purchase, giving amount, price, purpose, etc. The regular price is paid for the gas. Forms will be supplied by dealers and filling stations.

2. Before the 25th of the month following the month of purchase, the buyer must report to the comptroller the number of gallons bought and the amount of refunds expected. Claims reported later than the 25th of the following month will not be honored.

3. On receiving the report, the comptroller's department will mail the claimant an affidavit-account form, on which will be recorded information as to the amount and use of gasoline purchased. This information must be sworn to before a notary public, and filed with the comptroller not later than two months from the date of purchase. This document must be accompanied with a filing fee of $1.00, which must be paid each time a claim is filed. These fees will be used to enforce the law.

4. The claim will be investigated, and if considered valid, a state warrant will be issued for the refund. This warrant must be cashed within 60 days.

5. No refund shall be made where gasoline is used later than six months from purchase.

Persons believing themselves to be entitled to exemptions should write to Comptroller Sam Houston Terrell, Austin, Texas.

After several futile attempts, the boys were both drawn to the surface and to safety. Cutrell had been under the falls for more than an hour when rescued, and Easterling for thirty minutes.

The boys said that the accident occurred because during the recent floods in the river two or three of the piling posts were washed out and away, and the water covered the gap, not showing the place. Cutrell stepped into the gap and was swept down, as was also his comrade who sought his rescue. The place where the pilings were missing caused a recess of six or eight inches underneath the falls, and this proved a safety valve for the boys and gave breathing space during the time they were engulfed by the swift waters as the falls went over them.

She has two productive projects this year, poultry and garden. She has been very successful with her chickens and now has 400. Though her garden was damaged by heavy rains she has gathered 600 pounds of vegetables from it. She has canned 300 quarts of fruits and vegetables. The 4-H club encampment, held at Sue Haswell Memorial Park last week, was the best we have ever had. It seemed that everybody vied with each other in seeing who could do the most for the success of the encampment.

Bryan Rotarians Told Something About Value of Dairy Industry To Brazos County by C. L. Beason

Rotarian Curtis Beason had charge of the program at their regular weekly luncheon. After the introduction of visiting Rotarians and visitors by President H. B. Williamson the program was turned over to Rotarian Beason who made an excellent classification talk.

County Agent Beason then turned the program over to President Williamson, who having a few minutes left, gave a brief outline of the meeting of the Rotary presidents and secretaries held at Brownsville, Texas. He stated in part that there are 52 nations with Rotary organizations, with over 3,000 clubs and a membership of about 150,000. The Rotary clubs of Texas and Mexico, and particularly those near the border, are doing much to foster better understanding and friendship among business and professional men of the two republics. There were some prominent men of Mexico that took part in the program. Mr. Bobbitt was assisted throughout the conference by A. B. Mayhew, immediate past governor of the 47th district. Rotarian Williamson stated that the conference of presidents and secretaries in all was a wonderful success. Special stress was placed on the sixth object of Rotary, "The advancement of understanding, good will and international peace through a world fellowship of business and professional men united in the ideal of service."

President Williamson called for a meeting to be held at McCulloch-Dansby tonight at 7:30 p. m. Chairmen of the different committees are expected to be present. Those present were: George Adams, Dr. John Black, Wilson Bradley, C. S. Beckwith, John Seeley Caldwell, F. E. Giesecke, Victor Gayle, Tyler Haswell, Kay Halsell, Chas. Hillier, Gene Humbert, W. H. Lawrence, A. S. McSwain, Will McCulloch, D. H. Reid, Hy. T. Schovajsa, Col. C. C. Todd, M. E. Wallace, Dave Wilson, H. H. Walderop, visitors, G. W. Murray, Austin; Fred Echard, Arlington, C. Freeman, Kerrville; L. L. Hale, Henderson; H. G. Vick, Lewisville; O. B. Bradford, Commerce; B. A. Reid, Jasper; J. G. Powers, Bryan.

The dairy possibilities in Brazos county he pointed out, need but be developed to bring prosperity to the farm and greater business to Bryan. Members of Bryan Parent-Teacher Associations Spend Leisure Time In Summer Preparing for Service

The three Parent-Teacher Associations of Bryan, stimulated by national and state associations in order to familiarize members, officers and leaders in P. T. A. work with the different phases of the organization so that they may be more efficient in their service. Bryan Parent-Teacher workers are anxious to put into their work during the coming school year every good thing that P. T. A. offers for her schools and school children and this fact is being shown in the interest taken in correspondence course work at this time.

The Congress of Mothers and Parent-Teacher Associations has during the past few years become one of the largest and strongest organizations in the country. It is regarded as no wonder that interest and activity by leaps and bounds when consideration is given of its object. First: to promote child welfare in the home, school, church and community; to raise the standard of home life and to secure more adequate laws for the care and protection of women and children.

Second: To bring into close relation the home and the school, that parents and teachers may cooperate intelligently in the training of the child, and to develop between educators and the general public such united effort as will secure for every child the highest advantages in physical, mental, moral and spiritual education.

As an encouragement in this study course work, Mrs. Albert Buchanan, president of the Bryan Council, has offered a prize to the local organization having the greatest number of members to complete the course, based on membership percentage.

Knowledge of the various makes and sizes, with the newest mechanical devices for speed and service, came to Roy Jr. as from day to day he read books and papers on the subject in the reading room of Carnegie Library, and studied the "internal improvements" of successful machines described there.

With added ideas thus attained Roy Jr. made models and models, none of them the success he desired, but each one a "treasure" to the neighbor boys and girls who begged to be the owners of the products of his handiwork as he experimented.

Finally, an airplane was made that would "fly"—a little. The plane is made of wood and tin, wings two feet long and about 3 inches wide, and with its body painted in conventional colors and lettering, gave much satisfaction to the young mechanic. Many other planes were made by the pattern of the successful one, and Roy's workshop at home has been the mecca of many ambitious young American aviators in Bryan.

And now a motor-boat has been successfully built by young Roy Vick, and its success proved by sailing under its own power across Winter's Lake, near his home in the southern part of Bryan, a distance of some 25 feet. This motor boat is 2 feet long and about 6 inches wide and is provided with a spring motor that "hums just right." The spring for the motor was made from an old automobile spring and the workmanship of fitting it into the motor boat is a credit to the ability of the young inventor.
